SROS selected as National Authority.

Cabinet has approved the Scientific Research Organization of Samoa (SROS) as the National Authority to conduct scientific researches to provide sample analysis for the Ministry of Health, Ministry of Commerce Industry and Labour and the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries. These analyses will be done according to International Food Safety Regulations and Standards.

Recognizing SROS as the National Authority (in Samoa) for scientific researches will help improve its services for the betterment of the country and will also prepare the Organization in becoming internationally recognized. It has been more than a year, since SROS has been preparing for this big step, through continuous rigorous assessment by the International Accreditation of New Zealand.

Achieving this milestone will benefit the whole country in ways of trading and marketing our local products to overseas countries.

Electoral Commission's Office Building Refurbish

Cabinet has decided to refurbish the Building for the Office of the Electoral Commission at Mulinuu.

The Ministry of Justice and Courts Administration had previously occupied this building before moving to their new premises. Reconstruction will be made to the building for the Office of the Electoral Commission to use this as its Headquarter. Reconstruction is also appropriate, as the Office is preparing for the up-coming election in 2011.
